Mr. OLMSTED did not believe in the policy.

Mr. DAVIS declared that the exchange would be of securities now practically worthless for others with ample guarantee and real value.

Mr. WALLACE also supported the bill with great force, as of advantage to the State and of broad and comprehensive policy, calculated for the development of mineral resources.

Messrs. WHITE and LOWRY held the same views.

The bill passed second reading.

The Cuban Insurrection.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HAVANA, March 24.—Captain General Dulce has issued a proclamation declaring all vessels captured in Spanish waters, or in seas near this island, with men, arms and ammunition of war on board, will be treated as pirates, and adjudged according to the articles of war, irrespective of their points of departure and destination.

A detachment of troops, under command of Gen. Escalante, has gone to Cienfuegos. Additional troops have also been sent to Cardenas, Sagua and Remedios. A meeting of planters was held at the Palace to-night at the request of Gen. Dulce, to discuss and plan a system of rural police, to be established throughout the island for the protection of planters.

News has been received of a heavy battle between the government troops and insurgents in the Central Department, at some point on the road from Remedios to Moran. The Spanish forces were commanded by General Puello. No complete report of the battle has been made public, not even the result is known; but the Spaniards claim eight hundred rebels were killed.

FORTY-FIRST CONGRESS.

[FIRST SESSION.]

SENATE: Substitute for the Bill Repealing the Tenure-of-Office Act Reported and Passed. HOUSE: Bill for Taking the Next Census—Mississippi Reconstruction Bill Reported.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March 24, 1869.

SENATE.

Mr. CONKLING rose to a question of privilege, and denied he ever made such a statement as was attributed to him in the recent caucus, that it was to settle finally and forever the Tenure-of-Office law. He then favored the proposition to suspend for four years and expressed the belief it would be satisfactory to General Grant. He then stated it had been dinned in his ear that the New York Legislature had instructed him to vote for the repeal, but he rejected the claim of any legislature, or any man, to become keeper of his honor and conscience; he should vote as he thought proper, and not as the state of New York thought, or the Senator from Indiana thought, or any other man thought.

Mr. GRIMES said some statements made concerning him were wholly untrue, but since his expertence of last year he had ceased to care for misstatements in the public press.

Mr. TRUMBULL, from the Committee on Judiciary, reported a substitute for the bill to repeal the Tenure-of-Office Act, as follows:

Strike out all after the enacting clause and insert as follows: "That the first and second sections of an act entitled an act regulating the tenure of certain civil offices, passed March 2, 1869, be and the same are hereby repealed, and in lieu of said repealed sections the following are hereby enacted:

"That every person holding any civil office, to which he has been or may hereafter be appointed, by and with advice and consent of the Senate, and who shall be entitled to hold such office during the term for which he shall have been appointed, unless sooner removed, by and with the consent of the Senate, or by the appointment, with the like advice and consent, of a successor in his place, except as herein otherwise provided.

"SEC. 2. That during any recess of the Senate the President is hereby empowered, in his discretion, to suspend any civil officer appointed by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, except Judges of the United States Courts, until the end of the next session of the Senate, and to designate some suitable person, subject to be removed, in his discretion, by the designation of another to perform the duties of such suspended officer in the meantime, and such person so designated shall take the oath and give the bonds required by law to be taken and given by the suspended officers and shall during the time he performs his duties be entitled to the salary and emoluments of such officer, no part of which shall belong to the person suspended; and it shall be the duty of the President, within thirty days after the commencement of each session of the Senate, except for any office which, in his opinion, ought not to be filled, to nominate persons to fill all vacancies in office which existed at the meeting of the Senate, whether temporarily filled or not, also in place of all officers suspended, and if the Senate during such session shall refuse to advise and consent to an appointment in the place of any suspended officer, and also refuse by vote to assent to his suspension, then, and not otherwise, such officer, at the end of the session, shall be entitled to resume possession of the office from which he was suspended, and afterwards to discharge its duties and receive its emoluments as though no suspension had taken place."

Mr. BAYARD moved to table the report. Lost.

Mr. DAVIS moved to substitute the House bill, which was decided not in order, as the Senate had already struck out that bill.

Mr. WARNER moved the bill be laid on the table and printed. Lost—22 to 34.

Mr. GRIMES stated he could not vote for the bill.

Mr. DAVIS moved a substitute absolutely repealing the Tenure-of-Office act, but President Anthony declared it out of order, as being substantially the same as the House bill.

Mr. MORTON said the report of the Committee preserved the shadow rather than the substance of the Tenure-of-Office act. It was merely a bad photograph of a dead body. Therefore, he did not feel called upon to argue against it or oppose it actively in any way; but he could not vote for it, because, by preserving the veto power of the Senate, it violated the theory he held on the subject.

Mr. HARLAN argued in favor of the existing law. He saw no reason why the President should have absolute control over the Federal officers any more than State Governors have such control over State officers.

Mr. FOWLER made a general argument against the Tenure-of-Office act, and was followed by Mr. ROSS in similar terms. The latter had no word of apology for the mal-administration of the last President, but he believed the evils resulting from it had been aggravated by the operation of this law.

Mr. SPRAGUE administered a rebuke to the galleries for laughing at him the other day, for saying they reminded him of the idiotic inmate of a burning dwelling, who laughed at all warning and perished in the flames. He would nevertheless repeat his warning. The affairs of Congress were being mismanaged by lawyers. He had felt deeply interested in the success of the Republican party in the past, and had contributed to it, he thought, as much in character and a good deal more in money than other Senators. Indeed, he believed his contributions of the latter had been greater than that of all the other Senators combined. He denied Congress had restored harmony or prosperity to the country, and asserted the people in the South are rather in a state of chronic revolution, and that there was no justice for the poor man or protection for the rights and liberties of the citizen in this boasted land of freedom. Immigration had fallen off; the industry and agriculture of the country were so prostrated at the West that immigrants cannot find remunerative employment, for they cannot sell their products for enough to supply themselves with the necessaries of life. The reason was that legislation and the administration were so shaped as to encourage capital, to speculate on every industrial occupation in the country. If this course was to be continued, in less than five years there would be a clamor for a tariff to keep out foreign cotton. But, great as was the mismanagement of our affairs in every department, the greatest abuses were in our financial policy. That policy was directed and controlled by the bankers. They, no doubt, gave as good advice as they could, but experience had always shown that dealers in money knew little or nothing about the relation of money to other occupations and interests. The bearing of all this was, if the legislators of the country had done their own work so badly, how could they dare to assume the powers and duties of the Executive also? The social condition of the country was quite as bad as its financial condition. There was less virtue and morality in American society than in any other civilized society on the face of the earth. The prevailing demoralization was frightful. What mother could send her son in the world, with any confidence that he would be able to resist the temptations that would surround him? What husband could close his door? [Laughter.] The country was on the brink of a precipice, and unless the people could be roused from their apathy, all was lost. He had wished for and aided in the election of General Grant to the Presidency, because he believed he (President Grant) had not been contaminated by the politicians, and had the capacity required to see through and defeat their machinations. He had listened to the inaugural address with intense interest, and had been pleased by the President's expression of his purpose to be independent in the discharge of his official duties. But when he heard the passage asserting the sacredness of the public debt, he had gone away disheartened and sorrowful, because it had shown him the canker that possessed the American body politic had got possession of the President also. Still he was not without hope. He hoped the President would yet discover the great error into which bad advisers had led him, and would turn away from this policy as from a charnel house. With an interesting biographical sketch of himself, Mr. Sprague finished his speech.

The report of the Committee was then adopted as a substitute for the pending bill, by the following vote:

Yeas—Messrs. Abbott, Anthony, Boreman, Brownlow, Buckingham, Carpenter, Cattell, Chandler, Conkling, Cragin, Drake, Edmunds, Ferry, Gilbert, Hamlin, Harlan, Harris, Howard, Kellogg, Morrill, Osborn, Patterson, Pratt, Ramsey, Rice, Sawyer, Schurz, Scott, Spencer, Stewart, Sumner, Tipton, Trumbull, Willey, Williams, Wilson and Yates.—37.

Nays—Messrs. Bayard, Casserly, Davis, Fessenden, Fowler, Grimes, McCreery, McDonald, Norton, Ross, Sprague, Stockton, Thurman, Vickers and Warner—15.

Mr. TRUMBULL briefly explained the bill as reported from the Judiciary Committee. It was designed, he said, to remove any obstacle which the Tenure-of-Office act, unchanged, might throw in the way of the President, in reforming the public service, and at the same time to preserve the principle, which some Senators thought a sound constitutional principle, underlying the Tenure-of-Office act. The Senator from Indiana had said the power reserved to the Senate by this bill would amount to nothing, because if the Senate refused to confirm the suspension of an officer, and thereby re-instate him, the President might suspend him immediately after the adjournment of Senate. He would ask that Senator whether he had not confidence in the President, to believe that he would act according to the spirit of the law? He (Mr. Trumbull) had such confidence, and had no fear whatever that the President would seek to evade the law in any way.

Mr. MORTON thought the Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, (Mr. Trumbull,) ought to have explained the bill earlier in the debate, as very few Senators yet understood its provisions. He briefly criticised the bill and denied it preserved the principle underlying the Tenure-of-Office Act.

The bill was then passed.

The Senate at 5:35 went into Executive session and soon after adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

On motion of Mr. DAWES, the House Committee on the Civil Service bill was ordered continued.

Mr. WHITTEMORE introduced a bill to regulate the manner of applying to Congress for the removal of political disabilities.

Mr. PALMER introduced a bill concerning the United States District Court in Iowa; also, a bill to establish a port of entry at Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Mr. PAINE introduced a bill to enforce the third section of the fourteenth article of amendment to the Constitution. It provides that every person who is ineligible to office under that section, and who holds or attempts to hold office in any State or Territory, and every civil or military officer who has authority to remove such person, and does not do it, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be liable to a fine of not less than five hundred dollars or more than five thousand dollars, and imprisonment not more than five years or less than sixty days.

Mr. AXTELL introduced a bill amendatory of the act of July 27, 1867, to protect the rights of actual settlers.

Mr. WILSON introduced a bill in reference to lands of Minnesota State University.

Mr. NIBLACK introduced a bill to equalize bounties.

Mr. CLARK introduced a joint resolution to enable actual settlers on the Cherokee strip of lands in Kansas to purchase lands.

Mr. GARFIELD, from the Select Committee on the Census, reported a bill for taking the ninth and subsequent census. Ordered printed and recommitted.

Mr. GARFIELD gave notice that he would call it up for action next Tuesday.

The bill establishes a Census Bureau in the Department of the Interior, the head of which is to be appointed by the President. An Assistant Superintendent is to be appointed by the Secretary of the Interior in each Congressional District or Territory. The District Superintendents are to employ all the subordinates they need for taking the census. The census is to be taken as of the first of April, 1870, the work to be done in two months, and final publication made and the bureau closed by the 1st of May, 1872. The Secretary of the Interior, Attorney General and Census Commissioner are to prepare and perfect schedules and tables to lay before Congress on the first Monday of December next. When the census is taken the population of each State is to be divided by 150,000, and the quotient will give the number of Representatives to which the State is entitled in Congress. This is expected to give two hundred and seventy members in the House. The basis of representation hereafter is to be fixed at one member for every 170,000 population.

The Senate bill to incorporate the National Junction Railroad Company was amended and passed.

Mr. BUTLER, of Massachusetts, from Committee on Reconstruction, reported a bill for the State of Mississippi. It authorizes the reassembling forthwith, on the call of the President of the Constitutional Convention heretofore elected, by act of March 2, 1867. If the President declines to issue the call within thirty days, the Commanding General of the Fourth Military District is to summon the Convention by proclamation. The Convention is empowered to appoint a Provisional Governor, to authorize him to appoint and remove Registrars and Judges of Election, and to provide for forwarding the votes on the Constitution to the Provisional Governor, to be counted in his presence and that of the General commanding the Military Division of Mississippi, &c. The Convention shall not continue in session for more than sixty days, and the Constitution framed by it shall be submitted to the people within ninety days after adjournment. The districts unrepresented at the time of last adjournment shall proceed immediately to elect delegates, under the direction of the Commanding General. Any one or more provisions may be submitted to a separate vote. The ordinances that may be passed by the Convention shall be in force until disapproved by Congress, or until the State shall have adopted a Constitution and it shall have been approved by Congress. The right of trial by jury shall not be taken away. By the act the military commander shall, on a requisition of the Provisional Governor, give aid to the officers of the Provisional Government in preserving peace, &c. The Provisional Governor may remove officials in the State and appoint their successors, subject, however, to the orders and directions of the President of the United States, who may remove the Provisional Governor and appoint a successor.

Mr. BECK moved to amend by striking out the sentence authorizing the Committee to appoint a Provisional Governor, so as to leave that power with the President of the United States.

Mr. FARNSWORTH gave notice that he would move to postpone the consideration of the bill until the next session.

Mr. BUTLER expressed his acknowledgment of the confidence in the President expressed by the amendment of Mr. Beck, and said he could not help admiring the new-born zeal of the States rights men, who now wished State officers to be appointed by federal authority rather than by the people of the State. The Committee, however, thought the appointment should be by the President of the Convention. He proceeded to explain and advocate the various provisions of the bill. It had been reported from the Committee with great unanimity, and had been sanctioned by the Committee of the last House. It had been carefully and thoroughly considered. If the House thought it best to have any reconstruction in Mississippi, he hoped it would stand by the bill.

Mr. BECK addressed the House for an hour in favor of the amendment offered by him. He declared that the last Convention of Mississippi had rendered itself infamous and was utterly unfit to be the depository of power. He contended the President of the United States, having no animosities to gratify, and being presumed to desire the restoration of good relations with the whole country, would appoint a Provisional Governor who would see that at least there was a fair election. He urged this, not from any new-born zeal for federal authority, but as a choice of evils. The Democratic minority did not look to any party advantage in this; they did not expect the President to appoint any Democrat to such an office; but they believed the President would do justice and see that fair men were appointed and fair elections. Therefore they were opposed to depriving the President of the power which he now holds.

Mr. LAWRENCE, of Ohio, asked what power the bill took from the President?

Mr. BECK replied the President now had the power under all the reconstruction laws to appoint provisional governors and military officers, who had authority to appoint registers and judges of election. By this bill the President was deprived of this power and the military commandant was deprived of all power. All that he could do was to aid the provisional governor in carrying out his orders, however infamous they might be. Mr. Beck proceeded to give an illustration of the unworthiness of the last Mississippi Convention, which this bill proposed to reconvene. Having done so at considerable length, he asked whether it was wonderful that the white men of Mississippi voted against the constitution? Was it wonderful that decent negroes of Mississippi voted against it, as they had? Was it not wonderful that any set of gentlemen now seek to restore power to such a convention, without even giving the President of the United States the right to see that the next election is fairly held? That was the amazing position.

Mr. LAWRENCE replied to the comments of Mr. Beck on depriving the President of the power to appoint a Provisional Governor for Mississippi, and argued that no such power was vested in the President. President Johnson had undertaken to exercise the power of appointing Provisional Governors, but such action on his part had never received any validity from Congress, and no act conferring such power on the President had ever been passed by Congress. That power had been conferred by reconstruction acts on the military commanders in the South and on the General of the Army. This bill, therefore, took no power from the President. It merely transferred from the military authorities to the Convention the power to appoint a Provisional Governor for Mississippi.

Mr. BECK suggested that Mr. Lincoln had exercised the same power in the appointment of Mr. Johnson.

Mr. LAWRENCE replied that that was not so. Mr. Johnson had been appointed Military Governor of Tennessee, which was a very different thing from a Provisional Governor. The one exercises martial power, the other civil power.

Mr. WOOD obtained the floor to oppose the bill, but yielded to a motion to adjourn, and the House adjourned.

Appointments by the President—The Missouri Test Oath Case Plan for Specie Payment Resumption—The Quakers and the Indians—Tenure-of-Office Act.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March 24, 1869.

NOMINATIONS BY THE PRESIDENT.

The following nominations were sent to the Senate to-day: Gen. Giles A. Smith, Second Assistant Postmaster General; Moses H. Grinnell, Collector of Customs, New York; Simon J. Stone, Collector of Internal Revenue, Sixth District, Pa.; Adam H. Schuster, Collector of Internal Revenue, Sixth District, Mo.; P. G. Watmough, Collector of Customs at Cayahoga, O.; and the following to be postmasters: Albert Hatch, Windsor, Vt.; Jno. R. Dodson, Phœnixville, Pa.; Jesse E. Mears, Bristol, Pa.; Chas. T. Sayle, Troy, Pa.; Philip Hoerr, Buchanan, Pa.; Wm. G. Price, Chester, Pa.; S. G. Baker, Genesee, N. Y.; John D. Clevenger, Mt. Holly, N. J.; James Furman, Bordentown, N. J.; Richard H. Fountain, Mishawaka, Ind; J. H. McPheeters, Bloomington, Ind.; Benjamin Carter, Seymour, Ind.; Thomas P. Freenor, Council Bluffs, Iowa; F. M. Cassidy, Winterset, Iowa; H. J. Williams, Dubuque, Iowa; J. Wagner, Indianola, Texas; Fred. T. Benson, Newton, Mass.; William Price, Grenada, Miss.; Henry D. Shaffer, Canton, Iowa; James P. Bard, Columbia, Tenn.; John W. Williams, Nianah, Wis.; M. H. Garing, Fort Atkinson, Wis.

MISSOURI TEST OATH.

In the case of Francis P. Blair, Jr., plaintiff in error, against Jno. S. Thompson et al., and Warren Woodson, plaintiff in error, against the State of Missouri, ex rel. the Attorney General, was argued in the Supreme Court to-day, by Montgomery Blair for the plaintiff in error, and by Senator Drake for defendant in error. The case involves the constitutionality of the Missouri test oath.

Montgomery Blair, in the course of his argument, said Francis P. Blair, Jr., could not take the oath that he had never resorted to arms for the purpose of overthrowing the State government of Missouri, because at the outbreak of the rebellion, in October, 1860, he organized a military force to protect the United States Arsenal at St. Louis, and afterwards organized four regiments and tendered them to the Government, with which to operate against and which captured Camp Jackson. The oath prescribed by the Constitution of Missouri is called the oath of loyalty. He regarded it as the oath of disloyalty, for it required a man to swear that he stood by the government of the State which made war upon that of the United States.

Senator Drake, in his reply, defended the State Constitution, and argued that it was essential to protect the State from its enemies by excluding them from participation in its government. None but qualified voters can exercise political power, and it is by and through the ballot that the power can be exercised by the people. The Constitution demonstrates while it affirms that the people are the only source of power. He then proceeded to show the necessity for the amendment to the State Constitution requiring an oath of loyalty.

Mr. Drake will resume his argument to-morrow.

ANOTHER PLAN.

Amasa Walker has written a long lettter to Mr. Garfield, Chairman of the House Banking Committee, submitting another plan for the resumption of specie payment. He proposes—

First. That Congress authorize the issue of compound interest notes, precisely like those with which the people area already familiar, to an extent equal to its treasury notes, say three hundred and sixty millions, or so many as may be required to redeem the greenbacks; let them be of denomination of five, ten, twenty and fifty dollars, with suitable proportion of hundred and thousand dollars for large operations.

Second. Let these notes be dated on the first day of each successive month, commencing with the first day of July next, when ten millions should be made ready for issue, and an equal amount on each succeeding month until the entire quantity has been furnished.

Third. Let these notes be convertible into 10-40 bonds, at five per cent., like those heretofore issued, at the end of two years from date, but not before.

Fourth. Let Congress imperatively require that these notes and no other be paid out for all disbursements of the Treasury, except those payable in coin, so long as there are sufficient to meet the wants of the Government, and if the whole monthly issues are not thus put in circulation, let the Secretary of the Treasury be required to exchange them for greenbacks, as he will undoubtedly be able to do, since they must be much preferred to the latter.

QUAKERS AND THE PRESIDENT.

For the first time in the history of the Government the Society of Friends is strongly reprepresented in the throng around the President and Departments. The President has proposed to appoint Quakers to Indian Agencies, but these Agents are so intimately connected with the army in their movements that an objection is made by the ultra peace men. The present object of the Society is to discover whether arrangements can be made which will reconcile the duties of the office with the anti-war views of the Friends. One delegation came to urge the appointment of a commission by act of Congress, to carry out, in good faith, the treaty with the Sioux Indians, ratified ten days ago. They believe that this treaty, which aims at the civilization of the Indians, and which secures to them, on moderate terms, the ownership of land, citizenship, and the education of their children, cannot be property carried out by the old agencies and routine; that they have oppressed and wasted the substance of the Indians so long, and think a Commission of philanthropists the best plan. Western men here, however, object to allowing the Pennsylvania Quakers to control these matters, and say their friends liying in the Indian Territory, who have had considerable experience in dealing with the Indians, should be allowed to have a voice in the matter.

TENURE-OF-OFFICE.

The Republican caucus this morning agreed to the report of the Judiciary Committee on the Tenure of-Office question. The main features are as follows: The President is to have power to remove Cabinet and other civil officers during the session of the Senate without giving his reasons, providing the Senate will fill the vacancies, and during the recess of Senate the President may suspend and appoint to office until the end of the next session. Within thirty days after the commencement of the session, he shall report these suspensions to the Senate, and if that body shall by a direct affirmative vote refuse to concur, the suspended officers shall be reinstated. If the matter be simply passed over, the officers shall not be reinstated.

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD.

The Postoffice Department has been officially informed that the Union Pacific Railroad had been extended to the Ogden and Central road to Lucca, thus leaving a gap of only eighty-two miles to be filled in order to complete the two Pacific railroads.

CONFIRMED.

The Senate to-day in Executive session confirmed one nomination only, that of Henry D. Moore, Collector of Customs at Philadelphia.

ASSIGNED TO DUTY.

Brevet Maj. Gen. Thos. Swords, retired, has been assigned to duty as Chief Quartermaster in the Department of the Cumberland.

GREAT BRITAIN.

THE IRISH CHURCH QUESTION.

LONDON, March 24.—The debate on the bill for the disestablishment of the Irish Church was resumed in the House of Commons last night. Mr. Spencer H. Walpole, member for Cambridge University, opposed the bill, and the O'Donaghue member, for Tralee, made a fervid speech in its favor. Mr. Gothern Hardy followed. He said the strength of the Liberals came only from the majorities at the Hustings. It rested on no basis. Mr. Gladstone had pledged himself and his followers to the destruction of all that was deemed most sacred. The destruction of the Church was urged by envy and jealousy. The speaker maintained that the Church had always fulfilled its mission.

Mr. Gladstone then rose to conclude the debate. He reviewed the course of the bill, and the arguments which had been made for and against it; declared that a new policy was necessary for Ireland, and this was the first step demanded by the unanimous voice of the majority.

Mr. Gladstone resumed his seat amid deafening cheers, and the House divided on the motion that the bill be read a second time, with the following result: For the motion, 368; against the motion, 250; majority for the government, 118.

The announcement of the result was greatly cheered in the House; the cheers were taken up by the people in the lobbies, and the news was then conveyed to an immense crowd outside the House, who joined in the applause with the wildest enthusiasm. The House at three o'clock in the morning adjourned over the holidays to the first day of April.

FRANCE.

PARIS, March 24.—At the last meeting of the Council of Ministers, the Emperor introduced the project of a law abolishing the whole system of workmen's registers. He expressed his satisfaction with the results attained by the progressive measures of the last few years. After reviewing the former legislation enlarging the rights and liberties of the workingmen of France, he said he believed that the law he now proposed would place them in their proper position, tend to disarm hatred, and cause force to give way to right. The Emperor's project was adopted by the Council, and the law will be submitted to the Corps Legislatif at an early day.

CONFLAGRATION.

Playing with little children on the hearth,
An hour ago—
With fitful mirth
Their gentle eyes were lighted—lo, the Flame
Like a little Fairy to their fancies came,
Whispering soft and low!

All sleep: the harmless Fairy wakes and chases
Across the floor and from darkness crawls,
Clambering up the walls,
And looks into the children's sleeping faces!
Now through the window shines
On the dew-ourden'd vines;
Then, Fiend-like leaps
Aloof
Upon the roof!
The city sleeps.
It waves its myriad hands
And laughs and dances, a maniac lost from bands!

The scared bells ring—
All sleepers, wakening, start
With fluttering heart!
Look! the gigantic Thing,
The unimprison'd Fury, tosses high
Bloodiest arms against the frightened sky,
O'er streets that glare with men! Midnight gives way
To the flame-cradled day!
White Fear and red Confusion mingle cries:
"Arise! Arise!
The city is in flame!"
The hearth-born Terror keeps its hurrying march,
The world aghast before, the clouds its victory-arch,
(The Lares on their altars die,
The wives and children fly:)
And ashes are its fame!

ON THE 11th of April next, the Pope will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of his taking holy orders. All over the continent presents are being collected for the purpose of gladdening his heart by them on that solemn occasion. In all probability Pius the Ninth will adhere to the old Roman custom, which requires the Pope, or any other prelate, to read mass on such an anniversary in the same church in which he celebrated his first mass, and the members of his family should surround him on that occasion. Already all necessary preparations have been made for this purpose at the small Chapel of Santa Anna, and it is said that the still living relatives of the Pope, his brothers and sisters, with their children, have already received invitations to come to Rome and attend that festival. These relatives of Pius the Ninth live at Sinigaglia, by no means in the most brilliant circumstances, the Pope being intent on avoiding anything that might look like nepotism.

New Method of Making Ice.

[From the N. Y. Sun, 19th.]

Yesterday afternoon a number of gentlemen, by special invitation, witnessed the operations of a new invention which olds fair to be one of great practical value. It is a process of making ice and refrigerating by machinery in a short space of time at a comparatively small cost and to an almost unlimited extent. The working of this machinery was exhibited on board the steamship Wm. Taber lying in the East River, at the foot of Nineteenth street, and its utility satisfactorily shown to the spectators. This novel invention does two things—it makes ice with the thermometer at ninety degrees in the shade, and preserves meats and fruits for transportation. It accomplishes its purpose upon the chemical principle that if all the heat is extracted out of any object it becomes intensely cold. The ice is made in this way: A small steam engine, by means of two pumps, subjects carbonic acid gas to a pressure sufficient to liquidize it. In a liquid state this gas has lost its heat, but recovers it again when converted into gas. Accordingly, a simple apparatus is contrived by which the acid in a liquid state is made to surround small tubes filled with water. The acid then returns to its gaseous condition, and in doing so takes with it all the caloric out of the water, leaving it solid ice. There is no limit to the number of these tubes or apartments of water, and a large quantity of ice can be formed at a time. Yesterday about twenty tubes were filled and frozen to an arctic rigidity.

Upon the same principle air can be renered cold and dry by passing through these tubes while carbonic acid is regaining its heat, and then can be pumped into an air-tight chamber. In this chamber, thus filled with dry, frozen air, any meat, fruit, or perishable article can be placed and preserved.

This new process has been patented by Mr. T. S. C. Lowe and a company formed to put it into practical operation. A vessel has been fitted up with air-tight compartments and ice-making apparatus, and the object of its owners is to proceed to Texas, buy meat there at almost nothing, and bring it to this market, fresh and cool. In the tropics, too, by this process ice can be made on the spot, and the luxury be accessible to all. The expenses of the vessel will be about $10,000 per annum; profits $860,000. At the close of the exhibition, Mr. Lowe invited the visitors, including members of the press, to a collation in the cabin of the vessel, and at the festive board he himself exhibited some curious experiments of the wonderful power of the carbonic acid in freezing any object. He took a bag full of frozen acid, and by means of it froze mercury in a very short time; reduced two bottles full of champagne, to the consistency of "sherbet," and passed it around to his guests; then he froze two eggs in two minutes to such a stony hardness that they rattled along the table like grape shot; a thermometer had all its heat taken out of it in no time, and thirty degrees of coldness also. The experiments in fact, might be termed brilliant, and they fully illustrated the principle of his theory of making ice.

Twice Married in a Day.

A few days ago there was a gay and festive wedding party at the house of Mr. J., who lives in Indiana, near the line of Preble county, Ohio; indeed, the house is in the Hoosier State, while the garden which supplies its occupants with sass, and the orchard from which they draw their fruit and cider are in Ohio. The occasion to which we allude to was the marriage of Miss Mary J. to a favorite son of old Preble, and as the event was largely attended, and the preparations for the entertainment of the gay and festive throng were so ample and admirable, nothing was wanting to render it one of the most splendid and satisfactory ever witnessed in all that country. The ceremony concluded, congratulations offered, and the banquet ended, the young people who contribute to make such occasions lively, were in the midst of their mirthful demonstrations when the minister who had tied the silken knot bethought him of the statutes touching marriages, and he concluded that the license, which was procured in Ohio, wasn't authority for marrying a couple in Indiana; and he created a sensation by communicating his doubts to the young people, who were indulging in a dream that they were "indissolubly united," and astounding the party of young folks, who were making merry of the event. A council was held, and it was decided that to make a sure thing, and leave no room for unpleasant doubts, the party would repair to the orchard, which was known to be in the State of Ohio, and the marriage ceremony should be repeated. This strategetic movement was executed at once and in good order, and the nervous bride and groom, standing there in the "beautiful snow," in that fruitful orchard, flanked on all sides by a crowd of shivering witnesses, were again pronounced husband and wife. That marriage ought to be divorce-proof.

PRESIDENT GRANT and family are now finally installed in the Executive mansion. The interior of the building has been very handsomely refitted, repaired and refurnished, and it is about to be adorned and embellished with statuary and other works of art, in which it has been greatly deficient. Among the prominent works of art are full sized Indian figures in bronze, which are intended to be placed in the hall in the rear of the main entrance; beautiful statuettes of Washington and his hatchet; Franklin and his whistle; William Tell and his son; Napoleon at confirmation; Lincoln, and one representing freedmen, by Rosetti. All will be placed in appropriate places in the East Room and the reception rooms. Adjoining, the Blue Room is to have a splendid Louis XVI. clock, with Roman lamp in ormolu and gilt. The Red Room will have a real Sevres vase, with hands me gilt finish. Other portions of the mansion will be decorated in like manner. A silver service of plate, to be used at state dinners, has also been purchased to replace the service purchased in France by Consul Lee in Monroe's administration. Mrs. Grant has given her personal supervision to the refurnishing of the White House. She was warmly attached to the residence which she has just left; and she remarked a few days since that she should go to the White House with reluctance.

THE undergraduate students of the New England colleges, during this year, it is computed, number 1,600. It is also estimated that if the students in the scientific and professional departments are added, the number will rise to 4,000. From one-third to one-half of the undergraduates are professors of religion; but the number studying for the ministry is less in proportion than formerly.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

PENN'A CENTRAL STOCK YARDS, WEDNESDAY, March 24, 1869.

CATTLE—The market has been very dull thus far this week ,the sales in the aggregate being unusualy light, and notwithstanding the receipts have been limited and the supply comparatively light, the tendency, if anything, seems to be downward. The number of buyers in attendance was about the same as last week, but in consequence of dull markets in the East, they did not seem disposed to take hold unless they did so at concessions; and this holders, as a general thing, were not willing to accede, preferring rather to ship on further East. The fact is, cattle are entirely too much inflated in the country, and it is generally conceded that there is no profit in the business for either drover or butcher, and the consumers, we mean the masses, are not able to pay present prices for fresh meat.

As will be seen by reference to the report of sales, prices ranged from 6 to 8¼ for common to good shipping steers, while prime to extra may be quoted at 8¾ to 9.

WEDNESDAY, March 17.—Adams to Kelly 17 weighing 20,375, at 7½; Horst to Hadden 14 weighing 20,075, at 8¼; S Shamberg to Kleman 16 weighing 20,400, at —; Holmes, Lafferty & Co. for Graham & Bro to Beach & Bray 15 weighing 16,845, at 7¾.

THURSDAY, March 18.—Holmes, Lafferty & Co. for Musser to Beach & Bray 36 weighing 42,650, at 8; same for Rodeheimel 16 weighing 20,200, at 6¼; Hedges & Taylor for Reed to Kelly 51 weighing 59,900, at 7⅝; same for same to same 18 weighing 17,650, at 6¾; Kleman to Rees & Baumer 6 weighinn 6,500, at 7¾; Holmes, Lafferty & Co. for Fernig to Kelly 17 weighing 17,225, 6½; Smith & Blue for R. Blue to Hadden 14 weighing 19,675, at —; Holmes, L & Co. for McKeever to Kelly 53 weighing 59,275, at 7¾; L. Potter to Bullock & Mandel 18 weighing 15,775, at 6; Schmidlapf to J Jennings 18 weighing 14,650, at 5,60;

FRIDAY, March 19.—Holmes, Lafferty & Co. for Hardy to Kleman 87, weighing 100,625, at 7½; Watson to Beach & Bray 24, weighing 23,525.

MONDAY, March 22.—Holmes, Lafferty & Co. for Munn to Shirshler 5, weighing 5,375, at 7½.

TUESDAY, March 22.—Holmes, Lafferty & Co. for Munn to Kelly 19, weighing 20,900, at 6¾; same for Swartz to Moses 20, weighing 18,850, at 6¼; Brandt to Beach & Bray 16, weighing 20,900, at $7,80.

SHEEP—Market has been pretty badly demoralized this week, the supply having been considerably in excess of the demand, and, compared with last week, prices are off half a cent per pound. There was scarcely a man here with Sheep this week, particularly within the past two days, but what suffered in pocket, and some of them pretty severely. We now quote good to prime shipping sheep at 6@7 cts., and fair to good at 5@5½. We are cognizant of 8 cents having been offered and refused for a bunch of extra Washington county sheep, but they were very fine, averaging about 130 lbs—the same sheep last week would have brought 8¼ or perhaps 8¾.

Paxton shipped a bunch to New York which cost him 8 cents in Washington county, this state, averaging 138 lbs, bought from E. Campbell.

HOGS—The Hog market has also been decidedly flat during the past two or three days, and compared with last week, prices are a shade lower. We now quote prime to extra Philadelphia Hogs at 11½@11¾ and Yorkers at 9¾@10¼, for common to extra.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, WEDNESDAY, March 24, 1869.

The reports in regard to the oil market were somewhat conflicting to-day; some operators thought there was an improvement, compared with yesterday, while others reported quite a different state of affairs. The fact is, some men permit their interest to get the better of their judgment, and they sometimes say and do things which their better judgment condemns, and in many instances, unconsciously, stand in their own light. Nor is this confined to the oil trade alone; unfortunately it is true of men engaged in all branches of business. For the time being, they imagine that the views they entertain are correct; that their theory is the only one in which there is any merit, and that any-one holding views in opposition to their's, is a fit subject for a lunatic asylum, or some other place, kept up for those who are considered besides themselves. Men are sometimes so interested in having the market go in a particular direction, that they work themselves up to the belief that it really has or is moving that way, when, perhaps, the facts in the case do not warrant any such conclusion.

CRUDE—The market continues weak with more sellers than buyers and compared with yesterday prices are a shade lower. We can report sales of three lots of 500 each, seller till July 1st, two at 15¼ and one at 15½. At the close, buyers were offering 15@15¼, while sellers were asking 15¼@15¾.

REFINED — Refined is relatively stronger than Crude, and while March appeared a little weak, the later months seemed to hold their own pretty well. Sale of two lots of 500 each till July 1st, buyer, at 36; 2,000 and 1,500 for March at 31½; 500 each, April, May and June, at 34¾; and—last evening—2,000 April at 31½; and 1,000 each July to December, on private terms. At the close, April and May was reported as being offered at 33, and April to June at 34.

RIVER NEWS.

The river was falling slowly last evening with six feet three inches in channel by Monongahela marks. Weather clear and pleasant. Snow has entirely disappeared from the city.

The R. C. Gray, from Cincinnati, is the only arrival we have to record.

Passengers and shippers will bear in mind that the Glendale, Capt. John M. Hare, will positively take her departure for St. Louis, and the Upper Mississippi to-day at noon,

The Bayard, Capt. Geo. D. Moore, is the regular packet for Parkersburg to-day, leaving promptly at noon.

The Lorena, Capt. Sam Shuman, is up for St. Louis, as is also the Mollie Ebert, Capt. G. W. Ebert for Missouri River. These are both tip-top boats.

The Emma No. 3, Capt. J. H. Maratta, is announced for Memphis and New Orleans forthwith. The Emma is conceded to be one of the staunchest and most substantial boats on the western waters. Mr. McConnel retains charge of the office.

The new steamer Minneapolis is rapidly approaching completion, and will be ready to commence business early next month. It is expected that she will leave here for the Upper Mississippi on or about the 10th of April.

The new mountain steamer Collossal, Capt. M. A. Cox, is announced for the Missouri River, clear up to Fort Benton.

—The Kate Putnam was to have left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Tuesday.

—A. T. M'Connell, clerk of the steamer Arkansas, carries on board a pet bear.

—The Ida Rees No. 2, Capt. Thompson, is announced for St. Louis and Missouri River.

—Frank Whiting, clerk of the Savanno, had his family on the boat to St. Louis, from Pittsburgh.

—Capt. Silver has returned from the wreck of the Peoria City. She was partially raised twelve times, when she let go, and has gone to pieces. She is now being wrecked.

—The Leonidas was to have loaded at Cincinnati for Pittsburgh, but in consequence of a scarcity of lower Mississippi freight, she will return to New Orleans from Cincinnati.

—The cook of the Fleetwood, reported drowned, has turned up alive. He states he fell overboard at Manchester and was picked up while struggling in in the river by the wharf-boat proprietor at that place.

—The Kate Putnam was to have got thirty or forty families of emigrants at Wellsville, Ohio, but the railroad underbid her, and they went through to St. Louis by rail. So we learn from a Cincinnati exchange.

—Captain Clark, of the Viola, running in opposition to the Jonas Powell in the Portsmouth and Big Sandy trade, is reported as having started for Pittsburgh to secure a larger and faster boat to compete with the Powell.

—A third interest each in the steamers Sarah and Lucretia, of the New Orleans Propeller Line, was sold at auction on Monday last by A. Brooks & Co., of Mobile, and purchased for $10,350 by Mr. Theodore J. Dimitry, of New Orleans.

—The Talisman, which broke her shaft in the Cumberland, below Clarksville, has ordered a new shaft, which will be forwarded to her at Clarksville. She had on board a full cargo, mostly for New Orleans, when the accident occurred.

—The locks, dams, lock houses, tools, implements, apparatus and materials of every description belonging to the Kentucky River Improvement Company, will be offered for lease to the highest and best bidder for a period of fifty years, at the Court House door in Frankfort, Kentucky, on Saturday, the 1st day of May next.

—The South wants an appropriation of $60,000 to improve the navigation of Bayou Teche, which sends annually about 12,000 hogsheads of sugar and 8,000 bales of cotton to New Orleans. As one of the consequences of civil war, it was so obstructed by timber and the hulls of vessels, that insurance can scarcely be effected at all on its navigation.

—The Vicksburg Herald of Wednesday says: The darkeys along the river bank, in the vicinity of the late steamboat disasters, are having a fine time of it, supplying themselves with provisions. There have been quite a force of them at work on the sunken steamer just below the city, who receive supplies of damaged freights in lieu of services. Yesterday a negro in a skiff caught a cask of bacon and possessed himself of its contents. It had floated off from the wreck of the Ruth.

—The New Orleans Picayune of Tuesday says: The Lexington, lying at the Algiers side, partly sunk, was sold by the United States Marshall to-day, at the custom house, for $1,000. The R. E. Lee made all the usual packet landings to Vicksburg and back—and they are nott few—and arrived here Sunday evening, with 1,217 bales cotton, 1,941 sacks cotton seed, &c. Making a business run from New Orleans to Vicksburg in four days is something to brag about, but it is perfectly easy to the R. E. Lee.

—Under the compromise entered into by the Upper Mississippi Companies, the freight tariff from St. Paul to Milwaukee or Chicage, is: 1st class, per 100 pounds, $1,60; 2d class, 80c: 3d class, 55c; 4th class, 45c. There will be a daily line, Sundays excepted, of boats from St. Paul to St. Louis, a daily line, Sundays included, from St. Paul to La Crosse, and also to Prarie de Chien and Dubuque, making three daily lines. The following passenger tariff has been agreed on:

		1st Class.	2d Class.
From St. Paul to	La Crosse	$7 00	$4 50
" "	Prarie du Chien	2 00	5 50
" "	Dunleith	11 00	6 50
" "	St. Louis	20 00

—We glean the following from the St. Louis Democrat of Monday: The Mollie Able being detained by taking on cargo, did not leave port until half-past seven yesterday morning. Unfortunately, when opposite the Arsenal, she ran aground, and did not get away until noon, after a towboat had been sent to her assistance. Sad to relate, while the Fisher was alongside the Able, about to pull her off, the mate of the Able, Jerry Coates, was caught between a stauncheon and spar, and had his leg crushed badly. He was brought up on the Fisher and taken to the Sisters' Hospital, where the leg was taken off below the knee. He bore the operation with great fortitude, and a speedy recovery is anticipated. Jerry Coates was to have been married next month to a lady of this city. She and his mother and sisters were expected at his bedside yesterday, after the operation was performed. Capt. Duble and other boatmen were present and witnessed the sad spectacle.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 31⅜.

DEMOCRATIC fraud is an expensive pleasure. The judicial election investigation case of Philadelphia cost the State over six thousand dollars.

THE bill to repeal the Tenure-of-Office act was again before the Senate yesterday, and the substitute reported by the Judiciary Committee adopted.

"CONSTITUTIONS and laws in these times are like turnpikes—made to be trampled on."—Louisville Journal.

What a pity the Democrats are no longer the toll gatherers.

AS WE anticipated, KAUFFMAN, the child murderer, was found guilty of murder in the second degree, yesterday, by the jury trying his case. He will be sentenced on Saturday.

THE inaugural address of President GRANT has been received with marked approbation by the intelligent masses of foreign countries, and has had the effect of reassuring the confidence reposed in the willingness and ability of the country to discharge its obligations.

THE NAME of Postmaster THOMAS, of Cincinnati, is presented by a correspondent of the Enquirer, of that city, for Mayor, in the hope of smashing up the party machine. Mr. THOMAS appears to be regarded by his friends as one born not to breathe outside of a good paying office.

IT IS asserted that the bill creating a Paid Fire Department will come up in a new shape at the meeting of Councils next Monday. The people are tired reading the discussions of the City Fathers on the subject and would be glad to have the measure settled one way or another.

MR. PHILIP HOERR, a very worthy Republican, and one who lost his leg at Gettysburg, has received the appointment of Postmaster for Birmingham, the present efficient incumbent, Mr. E. G. KREHAN, declining to continue in the service. We are sincerely glad to record this action of the President, as no more worthy selection could have been made.

A "TRAVELLING" cotemporary indulged itself in the prediction, yesterday, that the new Tenure-of-Office bill would not pass the House, and, therefore, that "some time will elapse before the President makes any changes except where vacancies exist." If the wish were really father to that thought, it would be uncharitable in us to say so.

A CASE of hydrophobia has been reported in Cincinnati. With this terrible disease prevailing east and west of us we think some active measures should at once be adopted by the Mayor to rid our streets of the thousands of villainous curs that roam at full liberty. Must we wait for a case of hydrophobia in Pittsburgh before any action is taken to guard the lives of citizens from the awful danger to which they are daily subjected?

AN ACT has been passed by the State Legislature incorporating the Young Men's Christian Association of Pittsburgh, for the purpose of improving the spiritual, intellectual and social condition of the young men of these two cities and vicinities. We are glad to note this taking of new life by an association that is a credit to the city containing it, and we trust the members may push forward the noble labor voluntarily and for the good of humanity taken upon themselves.

MR. BONNER of the New York Ledger, is not yet dead to enterprise. Nearly every exchange we take up, great and small, contains the opening chapter, published at so much per line, of the brilliant new story of "Red Knife," which has commenced in his journal. The Ledger is the best living evidence of what advertising will accomplish. Its circulation can hardly be counted, while its character and attractions are worthy the favor of the millions who cling to it as a family hearthstone journal.

THE TERMS upon which the Tenure-of-Office question has been adjusted, at Washington, were fully stated in yesterday's GAZETTE. The new bill has been reported to the Senate and will soon be sent to the House. Its provisions are entirely satisfactory to the President—which disposes of the rumor that he would veto any bill providing for less than an unqualified repeal. Indeed, there is no longer a question but that the House will also concur in accepting this solution of a troublesome problem.

THE NEW BRITISH MINISTRY has achieved its first victory for Liberty in Church and State. A decisive majority in the Commons upon the Irish Church question responds to the expectations of the nation and to the demands of an enlightened progress. The majority for disestablishment was fully up to the best figure which has been claimed since the close of the elections, while its vote was welcomed by a popular enthusiasm which revives the recollection of the anti-Corn-Law struggle and triumph under PEEL.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE on the Census has reported a bill to the House providing for the taking of the census of 1870, which will probably be passed by Congress. It provides that the work shall be done by Inspectors, specially appointed by the head of a census bureau in the Department of the Interior, for the various Congressional and Territorial Districts. The work is to commence on the first of April, 1870, and to close in two months thereafter, but the bureau is to have existence till May 1st, 1872. The basis of representation in Congress is to be fixed hereafter at one member for every 170,000 of population. If so, the Twenty-Second District will hardly gain one more member, as generally anticipated.

THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD is now open to travel and trains are running its full length. The recent statement of passengers who complained of the hardships endured coming over it eastward are denounced as ex parte and unworthy credence, having been made, it is charged, in the interest of a rival enterprise. Our experience on that road was such as to give us high opinion of its management, and when the card referred to was published, complaining of the inefficiency and indifference of the employés, we concluded there was some grave mistake, as no road in the country has better, more accommodating and courteous gentlemen in its service. We are pleased the statement has been authoritatively denied, and to learn that the impediments to travel have been no greater this winter on that route cutting through the backbone of the continent than on many of our own railways penetrating mountainous regions.

THE PROPOSITION to commit the conduct of our Indian affairs to Friends, at least so far as to select the Agents from that denomination, does not meet the approval of the Indian ring. When we consider that this ring is made up of men eminent for their christian philanthropy, we need not be surprised that their consciences tenderly protest against the employment of Friends in a business which might conflict with their peculiar peace principles. As the Agents have usually had frequent occasion for the use of military force, the ring proposes to spare Friends the pain of such distasteful business—and, in short, not to employ them at all. But the President has an idea that if more Quakers and fewer soldiers are employed in that department, it will redound to the interests of the country, as well as of the red men themselves. The experiment is worth trying, even without the approbation or in spite of the conscientious objections of the ring, which now attempts to prevent it.

IT IS MORE than probable that a thousand newspapers throughout the country will to-morrow herald the announcement that Pennsylvania has taken her place among those States that have ratified the XVth Constitutional Amendment. This night at half-past ten o'clock the final vote on the measure will be taken, and we risk nothing in asserting the verdict in advance. We believe the masses are in favor of the Amendment; if they are not now willing to award long delayed justice to an oppressed race, we are mistaken in their intelligence and love for freedom, liberty and equality. However, whether the measure be popular or unpopular, the Republican representatives in the Legislature cannot afford to refuse to do right, no matter what consequences may follow their votes. A party that fears to do what it knows to be just and proper, had better crumble than thrive on false principles and cowardice.

SAM CAREY, a demogogue of the first water, has been taking high grounds against the Government of Great Britain for daring to hold American citizens of Fenian proclivities, as prisoners. Poor CAREY has had an eventful career in politics, and it does sound strange in the ears of his admirers to hear him give vent to the deep love he has suddenly found for poor Pat, who, a few years ago, he was willing should take second rank to the negro, and, if his religion was Catholic, should be deprived of holding office or even participating in an election. But SAMUEL wants to be Governor of Ohio, and he must pave his way to gubernatorial honors, no matter how much he may have to swallow of his past record. In his new role of Fenian he appears about as ridiculous as he did in addressing the labor reform party here last autumn, when he forgot to lay aside his gold headed cane, heavy watch chain and fine broadcloth, which gave the lie to his sympathy and identity with the bone and muscle arrayed against the monied princes of the day. But we should be grateful to SAMUEL. He helped to defeat BURTT, the soft-handed champion of labor, more than any Republican orator on the stump in the district. Let him give up his aspirations for the Governorship of Ohio, and we will sign his petition for appointment as Consul to Cork, a position which may fully develope his lately discovered Fenian proclivities.

SAVE US FROM OUR FRIENDS.

The solid claims of home industry are too thoroughly and intelligently appreciated in this community, to be successfully obscured by the stupidity or the malice of some of our journalists. We have here a number of such people who are altogether ignorant of the first principles of political economy; who are entirely too obtuse to be capable of comprehending a broad, cosmopolitan idea, unless it were fired into their brains from a RODMAN gun; whose knowledge of the laws of commerce is practically confined to the petty range of their own personal experience; and whose code of professional morals seems to be constructed upon the solitary principle of keeping themselves at the expense of their neighbors. Suffered by an inscrutable Providence to control presses and type, they appear to be animated by no higher ambition than to howl periodically in unison in a sort of mad-dog cry of "free-trade" against any argument or proposition above the plane of their feeble comprehensions. Upon the old principle, that everything unknown to them is of necessity monstrous and false, they instinctively attack whatever they may fail to understand, often assailing with their noisy clamor, the oldest, truest and most intelligent friends of industrial protection—especially when these have the hardihood to present an established principle in any novel light.

Thus, once a month or oftener, we hear them snarling upon the footsteps of the GAZETTE, Luckily, we are well used to this sort of thing and it gives us not the least concern. This journal has been too favorably known, as identified for the generation past, with the American movement in favor of industrial protection, to be damaged in the public estimation by the stupid ignorance and jealousy of any of its cotemporaries. We might be concerned by apprehensions, that a great principle be made to suffer in the popular regard, by the damaging friendship of advocates who have neither information nor prudence. For the worst enemies of our home industry are those journalists, whose clumsy antics bring needless odium upon an honorable cause. But, fortunately, they have little influence at home, and none, whatever, abroad. No enlightened advocate of home protection looks to them for instruction or valuable aid, and not even the enemies of the American system would do it the injustice to hold it responsible for the blundering stupidity of a portion of the Pittsburgh Press.

ERIE AND TAMMANY.

A new element and a new agency are about to be introduced to New York politics. It is stated that the Erie railway and Tammany Hall have formed a close alliance, for their mutual benefit, and now present a common front strong enough to prevail over any opposition. This startling programme seems to be verified by such facts as have transpired. Messrs. TWEED and SWEENEY, new Directors of the Erie, are the well-known leaders of the New York Democracy; with Messrs. GOULD, FISK and LANE, thoy monopolize the exclusive management of the railway, and its extended affiliations throughout the West. Hundreds of towns and villages are traversed by these roads, which earn a gross annual total of more than twenty millions of dollars, and employ in various capacities an army of twenty-five thousand men. These men may be mobilized, and their votes cast at such points, and in such States, as the ring needs to secure, electing county officers, legislators and even turning the scale on State tickets. The road has already controlled an average of twenty members in the New York Legislature; combined now with the Tammany ring, making a body "rolled into one and turned loose on the field of politics," the machine is organized which may temporarily triumph over all opposition.

It is New York which must suffer from the resulting mischiefs of this organized corruption. There, we can readily see, in the light of past experience, that it may prove irresistibly potent. In Pennsylvania and Ohio, there is little to be apprehended from it. This field offers to the Erie-Tammany ring but one really serviceable railway ally, while there are opposing interests with a local jealousy and a popular vigilance quite strong enough all together to take care of the free-booting intruders.

With New York, the case is different. Its great metropolis, with the whole of that Southern tier of counties through which the Erie line sweeps, may be as easily and efficiently controlled by the new combination, as was that narrow belt of New Jersey in which, last November, it delivered its first successful blow, throwing the State over to SEYMOUR and BLAIR. Commanding, through the Tammany organization, a majority of forty to eighty thousand in the city, and holding this as its fulcrum, enough of the rural districts can be colonized to sweep the State Legislature and deliver over New York to the dominion of financial and political corruption for years to come. Erie and Tammany have both found that they have need for each other, and it was altogether natural that they should equally gravitate into this infernal alliance against commercial morality and public integrity. The league may prosper for a while—but not always.

SPRING TRADE.

Hereabouts, merchants, manufacturers, traders and mechanics are hopeful of the good times to be encompassed by the present year, and are preparing for a harvest of profits in the coming Spring and Fall trades. Since the close of the war our merchants have acted with extreme caution and prudence. They have, as a general thing, made no rash adventures, risked little on speculations and conducted their business on very small stocks, thus ensuring a safe basis. Out of such a system they have garnered strength, and, as the markets become settled, and as trade resumes its wonted channels, they are found fully prepared for the successful transaction of business. Many of the leading manufacturers have amassed heavy stocks to meet expected orders, while most of our jobbing houses commence the spring trade with much larger supplies of goods than have graced their shelves for many years. Considerable portions of the crops of Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and Western Virginia are yet held by the producer, and as soon as the weather opens will be moved to the city to give fresh life to business and put more money in circulation. Awaiting the spring rise in our rivers, there are acres of coal destined for points below, from which money returns may be expected about the beginning of May. Labor will be in demand, as about the middle of April the erection of hundreds of new buildings for business and private purposes will be commenced and large numbers of men will find employment on them up to the opening of winter. Altogether our prospects for 1869 are brilliant and rosy, and when the year closes it will be upon one of the most successful and prosperous terms we have enjoyed since the close of the rebellion.

A LETTER from Cheyenne to the Albany Evening Journal discusses the difficulties which the current winter has presented, obstructing business upon the Union Pacific Railroad, and concludes with the opinion:

"That the Union Pacific can be made as serviceable and reliable a road as the Pennsylvania Central. There is no more snow over the one than over the other. It will be necessary to shed and wind-break the track over the mountains. The Pennsylvania Central found that to be necessary, and promptly accomplished it; the Union Pacific, now undergoing its first winter campaign, has already found it necessary, and they will be as prompt to accomplish it as was the Pennsylvania Central. They must do it, otherwise the road will, as the St. Louis men assert, prove a failure."

WHEN the new Administration promptly relieved the Union men of Mississippi from the Johnsonian infliction upon them of a rebel sympathizer, in the person of General GILLEM, as their Military Commander, his departure was made the occasion for an outburst of rebel sympathy and adulation favor his especial friends. At a meeting held in his honor at Vicksburg, the ex-Rebel General WIRT ADAMS said:

I cordially approve and indorse the objects of this meeting. In the administration of General Gillem, I have seen nothing but what I could heartily approve. He was sent here to execute some infamous acts of Congress, which were oppressive and utterly unconstitutional, but with unlimited power to oppress us, he has protected us. He might, like that infamous Sheridan, of Louisiana, or that atrocious Sickles, of Carolina, or that tyrannical Meade, of Georgia, have seen fit to execute the power imposed. He has allowed the civil affairs of the State to remain in the hands of our friends. He made no appointments that the people cannot approve, nor has he given any carpet-bagger any show. His administration would have done credit to one of our citizens. Recently he made a pilgrimage to Washington, to ward from us and prevent that infamous Constitution from being imposed upon us, by a lot of political knaves in Congress He went before the Reconstruction Committee in our behalf. This noble soldier has won greater honors (in my opinion) in his administration of the civil affairs in Mississippi, than as a soldier. Indeed I can compare this man to but one man in history, that is to that noble Athenian, "Aristides the Just," for the great service he has rendered us.

Time's Last Whirligig.

It has taken eight years, less one month, for the whirligig of Time to take its revenges and to make its changes. Andrew Johnson has finally swung clear around the circle, and here is where he brings up.

A dispatch from Washington, dated the 19th, says: "Ex-President Johnson, Mrs. Johnson, Judge Patterson and family, and Col. Robert Johnson, left Washington for Greenville, Tenn., this morning. The ex-President has accepted the invitation of the citizens of Lynchburg, Va., to partake of the hospitalities of their city. He will remain there to-morrow."

Turn we now to history. Mr. Johnson "left Washington City on his return home in April, 1861, and on the 21st of that month he suffered personal peril at Lynchburg, Va., being groaned and hissed by a large mob, who threatened to take him from the cars to hang him. The Memphis Avalanche of April 25th exultantly described his having his nose pulled by infuriated men, backed by mobs, at Liberty, Va., and at other places along his route from Washington to Tennesse."

This is the first time in eight years that Mr. Johnson has traversed the old familiar route home. On the last trip he was treated contumeliously. On the present, he is an honored guest. But it is fair to presume that the leaders and abettors of the mob in 1861 are the head centres of the civic hospitality that Lynchburg has to bestow to-day. Who has changed? Does any one doubt that the convictions of the Lynchburg people are the same to-day that they were before the war? Why, within a month, they crowded into the cars to hoot and revile the feeble old Parson Brownlow, who represents to them the same faith that they were ready to mob eight years since.—N. Y. Advertiser.

Suicide of a Railroad Contractor--Railroad Accident in Illinois.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CHICAGO, March 24.—T. H. Lackey, a railroad contractor, of Battle Creek, Michigan, committed suicide in his room at the Massasoit House, Chicago, on Thursday night, by taking morphine. He was discovered about nine o'clock Wednesday morning and had evidently been dead several hours. He had been freely indulging in strong drink for some days previous.

The rear car of the express train which left Quincy, Illinois, Wednesday morning for Chicago, over the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, was thrown from the track at a point some two miles west of Earlville about one o'clock in the afternoon, and was badly smashed up. Some eight or ten passengers were more or less injured, one of whom, a man whose name could not be learned, can scarcely recover. The car ran some twenty rods over the ties, after leaving the track, and then capsized, completely taking the roof off. The man who was fatally injured, rushed to the front door and the car stopping suddenly, threw him some distance, landing him on his face, which was fearfully mutilated.

CHICAGO, March 24.—At the open Board in afternoon there was a moderate inquiry for wheat; No. 2 spring selling at $1,11½@1,11½, closing at $1,11@1,11¼. Corn and Oats dull and nominal. In the evening there was a little doing. Grain was inactive. Provisions quiet but a little firmer. Sales of 500 bbls mess pork at $31 cash.

Webster City, Iowa.

A resident of Webster City, Iowa, who was asked for information regarding the place, writes to a friend in this city as follows, concerning that flourishing western town:

Webster City is the capital of Hamilton county. The population at present is about fifteen hundred, but a large increase is anticipated the coming season. It is composed principally of Eastern people—from New England, New York, Ohio, Indiana, &c; a few Germans and less Irish. Society is not of the "codfish aristocracy" sort I have found in some of the Eastern States. We have a quiet, sober and sociable people, full of energy and enterprise. There are several fine churches and public schools in the place. A real live newspaper (The Hamilton Freeman) has been published here for nearly ten years, and is well supported; its columns teem with advertisements of our thrifty merchants and manufacturers, of which there are quite a number of various kinds.

The railroad to Webster City is now completed; a fine bridge built; Boone river is bridged, and in a few days we will have regular trains running here. The county and city is filling up rapidly, which requires the building of many residences, school houses, churches, bridges and other improvements, so that labor is plenty and wages good.

The price of land in the vicinity differs according to the quality and location. Unimproved prairie land ranges from five to fifteen dollars per acre; while improved is sold for from fifteen to fifty dollars.

A great portion of the land in the vicinity is underlaid with excellent coal, and there are a number of pits in operation, furnishing the citizens with that article of fuel.

For those who are used to city life it would probably require some sacrifices on their part to adapt themselves to life on a quiet Iowa farm, or even of a country village, but living here is not like it is in a backwoods country.

Taken altogether, I believe a bright future awaits Webster City. J. E.

NEW YORK CITY.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 24, 1869.

The somewhat notorious litigation heretofore pending before Judge Barnard in the case of the still more notorious Jas. Fisk vs. the Union Pacific Railroad, has been transferred to the United States Circuit Court, by order of Judge Blatchford.

The steamer Westphalia, from Hamburg via Havre, brought five million francs specie.

A man who passed twenty-four hours in New York sewers, emerged to-day with a bag full of watches, jewelry and other valuables.

EXAMINE BEFORE CONDEMNING.

One of the most important considerations to those who wish to live happily, is that of human health: a fact well known and deeply deplored by all who have lost or had it impaired. We know well enough that the thousands of compounds for its restoration are in many instances merely the inventions of those who desire to beguile the public and enrich themselves. It therefore becomes those who do not wish to be imposed upon, to examine the proof of the efficacy of a medicine, before trusting to its merits, or tampering with their health DR. KEYSER'S BLOOD SEARCHER, in the class of diseases for which he recommends it, is without a peer or a rival. It stands among blood purifying and alterative medicine, as the Alps among mountains, overtopping them. The rich vegetable juices of which it is composed are sure to renew the blood and re-invigorate the frame of man. We wish it understood, however, that we speak solely of chronic diseases—and those which have their origin in a depraved and cachectic state of the system. We would much rather that not one bottle of this great Blood Searcher should ever be sold, than it should not do good; and in every case to which it is suited, it will do good. There are thousands of readers of the GAZETTE who have some slight indisposition or ailment inconveniencing or interfering with the enjoyment of life, who could be cured by the use of less than a bottle of Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher. Especially is this true at this season of the year, when the powers of life, like the changes of the seasons, are emerging from the state of winter to spring, and spring to summer. The dollar that you expend to buy it will be regarded as of little consequence when placed in the scale with that renewed energy and elasticity of health which it will be sure to impart. And besides, the tone which it gives is lasting and real, wholly unlike the fiery and spasmodic glow imparted by most alcoholic stimulants; for whilst these corrode and depress the system when their stimulating effects have passed off, that invigorates the stomach, renews its vital powers, heals its irritated coats, and enables it to concoct and convert into chyle the food which is received into it for that end. No one can over-estimate the value to health of a single bottle of Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher at this season of the year. It will make life and health to bloom under its influence like the genial rays of the sun invigorates and starts into life the whole field of Nature. SOLD BY THE GROSS, DOZEN OR SINGLE BOTTLE, AT THE DOCTOR'S GREAT NEW MEDICINE STORE, NO. 167 LIBERTY STREET. DR. KEYSER'S CONSULTING OFFICE FOR ALL CHRONIC DISEASES, NO. 120 PENN STREET, FROM 10 A. M. UNTIL 4 P. M.

THE TRYING SEASON.

The searching winds, the cold, drizzling rains, the heavy fogs, and occasional warm and moist days of March, render it upon the whole, the most unhealthy month of the year. Its depressing influences are especially unfavorable to invalids, and thousands of persons with feeble constitutions, who have borne the winter bravely, break down in the first month of Spring. The variations of temperatvre and cold east winds are a serious trial to the dyspeptic and bilious, whose symptoms they invariably aggravate. Intermittent fever is also rife wherever there is evolvable poison in the water or the soil. To enable the system to combat these evils, there is nothing like a good vegetable tonic and among this class of medicines HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS stand supreme. Medical men prescribe it in preference to any of the tonic preparations of the pharmacopoia. They are aware that the ordinary tincture and extracts are all based upon cheap alcohol, which is surcharged with an acrid essential oil, and absolutely poisonous. They know, on the other hand, that the rectified essence of the finest rye grown in this country is the sole spirituous ingredient of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, and that the vegetable medicinal elements of which it is composed are of rare efficacy. Hence, it has the confidence of physicians, and finds its way into hospitals where no other proprietary medicine is sanctioned.

A course of the BITTERS is especially recommended to persons of cellcate habit, of both sexes at this season. In the fever and ague districts of the West and South, quinine has been almost universally discarded as a chologogue, and this valuable antidote to malarious disorders adopted in its stead. A double gain is realized by the change, for the bitters, unlike that dangerous alkaloid, are agreeable to the palate, and their curative effect is much more permament.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, WEDNESDAY, March 24, 1869.

The gold market was steady all day at 131¾, with less disposition to buy until the Secretary of the Treasury has better defined his policy. On the other hand, few care for buying in the face of a tight money market, but prefer to await the event after April 1st, when no doubt a new line of operations will be established.

Government bonds opened at a decline, rallied about ¼ per cent. and finally dropped to the old price. The market is very dull, with more sellers than buyers. Lower prices for bonds are predicted, and the principal speculators, as well as the Washington clique, are all selling and are now short, confidently expecting to buy at lower rates.

In stocks, an apparent downward move is on foot, and it would not be surprising to see a general decline of from five to ten per cent. for the entire list. The market is quiet this afternoon with little doing—plenty of sellers but no buyers. In our home securities there is a general bull, but no buyers even at a reasonable concession.

Business paper offered freely at high rates of interest, and every effort is made by parties to provide for the first of April. Business dull.

Mertz: Gold, 131¾; Silver, 124; Eighty; one's, 116; Five Twenties, 1862, 118½, do 1864, 114½; do 1865, 116½; do 1865, Consols, 113½; do 1867, 113½; do 1868, ——; Ten Forties, 105½; New York Central, 162; Erie, ——; Reading, 67; Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad, 22¾; Ohio & Mississippi, 33; Michigan Southern, 96¾; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 88¾; Chicago & Rock Island, 132; Chicago & North Western, 84¼; Chicago & North Western Preferred, 92¼; Adams Express Company, 59¾; Merchants Union Express, 16; Pacific Mail, 88½; Western Union Telegraph Company, 37½; Gregory, 2,65; Quartz Hill, 82; Corydon, —; Smith & Parmlee, 1,55; W. [By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 24, 1869.

The demand for money has been more stringent, and stock houses have experienced considerable difficulty in arranging their loans, and freely paid 7 per cent. in gold. The stringency is mainly due to the large shipments of currency to the interior, one express having taken one million dollars last evening, while the total shipments will probably reach three millions; most of this has been sent to Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore. The demand for money continued much later than usual, and many bank accounts were not made up until after four o'clock. Sterling dull at 8@8¼ for prime bankers', and 8¾@8⅞ for sight. Gold firmer; touched 131½, but closed dull at 131⅛@131¼. The rates for borrowing were 3 per cent. to flat. Rumor says the Treasury is selling gold, but nothing definite is known. The Treasury currency balance here is being replenished by transfers from other depositories. It was generally understood that any Treasury sales will be to get currency to bridge over until the Internal Revenue receipts have been more free. The market for Governments has been feverish; prices opened at the closing rates of yesterday, with little disposition to take stock. During the day, however, some short sales were covered, and this improved the list; the demand was mainly for 62s, 65s and 67s.

Governments are still out of the market, not being able to dispose of their exchange, and until the demand springs up they can fill but few orders for shipments. The market closed dull and lower. Coupons of '81, 116¼; do. '62, 118¼; do. '64, 114@114¼; do. '65, 116@116¼; new do., 113@113¼; do. '67, 113¼@113¼; do. '68, 113@113⅛; 10-40s, 105@105¼.

State bonds dull and heavy; Missouris, 87⅞@88; New Tennessees, 64⅛@65¼; North Carolinas, 57½.

In the stock market New York Central has been the object of absorbing interest, the dealings being heavy and attended with great excitement. The Jenckes suit against the Central was withdrawn yesterday, and this morning the dividend on about $11,000,000 of the eighty per cent. scrip was paid, when another injunction was issued by Judge Ingraham. The new complaint is brought by Granville S. Nichols, whose charge is corruption between some of the Directors and the Legislative Committee. The price opened at 164, fell to 160¼ and closed at 162⅛@162¼. The rest of the list was slightly dealt in. The prices sympathized more or less with the changes in Central. The larger dealings were in Pacific Mail, Ohio and Mississippi, Fort Wayne, Rock Island and Northwestern, the latter being exceptionally strong. The market closed feverish. Extra shares dull.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, WEDNESDAY, March 24, 1869.

As noted in our last report, there are unmistakeable signs of an improvement in some branches of business, and we are in hopes now that the worst has been passed, and the Spring trade is about to open up in earnest. The demand, however, as yet for almost everything is light, being confined mainly to supplying immediate wants, and as a consequence, round lot operations are of rather rare occurrence. In regard to values there are no important fluctuations, with the exception of Sugars, which, under the influence of the advices from Cuba, have advanced.

APPLES—Scarce and in good demand; may be quoted at $4½@6½ per bbl, as to quality.

APPLE BUTTER—Demand fair and market steady at 80@90c.

Dry Goods Market.

NEW YORK, March 24.—The market continues moderately active for the sale of Printed Calicoes, at reduced prices, but in most other classes of goods there is little life in trade; all classes of goods are mostly selling at low and unprofitable rates, and the trade are consequently despondent, but the business transacted is mostly done at a loss all around. Nice styles of Adriatic Prints are selling down to 8½c; Brown Cotton Mass BB are selling as low as 13½c. There is no important change to notice to-day, but the market is a little feverish owing to the failure of the Utica Steam Woolen Mills and some defalcation in the affairs of James' Steam Mills. The weather is fine, and as prices are low enough for the safety of the trade, more activity may be anticipated as the trade is well represented.

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

River Under the Rocky Mountains.

Trubner's Record contains the following letter from Mr. Catlin:

Mr. Catlin, the American ethnographist, whose extensive travels have led him through the wildest and rudest scenery of America, has turned his attention for several years past from the Indians to rocks, and has made in these studies voyages to South America, to the Rocky Mountains, the Andes, and the Antilles, the result of which he is preparing to publish in a work entitled "The Lifted and Subsided Rocks of America, with their Influences on the Oceanic, Atmospheric and Land Currents." And one of the striking features of this book seems to be, to quote his own words, "the discovery of a river under the Rocky Mountains many times larger than the Mississippi, its course nearly twice the Mississippi's length, and gliding through the clean and vast rocky cellars of the upheaved mountains without the losses by alluvial absorptions and solar evaporations, which diminish valley rivers, it takes along in its course the sinking streams and lakes of the mountains of Mexico, and with them, perhaps, by a hundred mouths in its deep bed, debouches unseen into the Carribean Sea and Gulf of Mexico.

The frequent "Montagnes qui fument," "Roches qui tremblent," and "Blowing Caves," which occur in the Rocky Mountain range, he says, indicate submontane cascades. caused by the waters of melting snows, of rains, of glaciers, and a thousand sinking rivers and lakes, which, among broken up and angular rocks, are ou their way to the ocean level.

Through the vast and heated vaults underneath the Andes, I contemplate a similar river running from the thirteenth degree of South latitude to the North, and carrying their overflowing waters also to the Carribean Sea.

The Antilles, now partially sunk in the ocean, are but a chain of mountain tops, which, six thousand years ago, stood up in their grandeur, a part (and, probably, the glory) of the Andes; and at that date the two mighty submontagne rivers meeting and debouching together into the ocean, East or North of the Antilles, combined with extraordinary volcanic influences, undermined the Antilles chain, which went down in the Cataclysm well established in the Indian traditions, I have gathered both in North and South America, and also by unimpeachable records on the rocks themselves—by shapes and grooves left on the giant walls at Caraccas and Santa Martha, on the coast of Venezuela, where this mighty chain was broken; records which I have twice seen, which may be read by all ages to come, and which are not myths or fables.

In this tremendous catastrophe, probably the most stupendous that ever took place on the surface of the globe, the Peninsula of Yucatan, with its splendid Aztec cities, sank, and since has partially risen, leaving the two grand sunken estuaries, the Gulf of Mexico and the Carribean Sea, into which two subterranean rivers, from the constant overflow of their vast cisterns, under the mountains, now spread their clear and blue waters, heated by the volcanic furnaces they have passed. By the joint influx of these rivers into the Carribean Sea, its Western surface is elevated several feet above the level of the ocean; and pouring into the Gulf of Mexico, sweeping the Western coast, and taking in its way the waters of Rio del Norte and the Mississippi, this vast flood debouches with them into the Atlantic, at the Florida Cape, and there becomes the Gulf Stream, until now one of the mooted puzzles of the world.

A Few Things That Are to Be.

Before 1900 science and art will have so advanced as to have affected complete revolutions in many of the industrial processes and methods of securing health, comfort, and convenience to the human race. Vast gas manufactories will be found in all the great cities and towns, in which the invisible agent will be manufactured solely for the purpose of cooking the food and warming the dwellings of the inhabitants. These works will be independent of those established for making illuminating gas. It will not be necessary to purify the fuel gas so fully, and it will, in most places, be made from wood. The cost will be so low, and the convenience so great, other kinds of fuel will, in a great measure, be dispensed with. No ashes, no smoke, no dust—what a glorious realization this will be! At that time, the air, the earth, and the sea will be full of conducting wires, and electric currents will flow constantly in every direction. A new order of things will prevail in our post offices. The click of the telegraph instrument will be heard, instead of the snap of the lock which closes up the wide mouths of the mail bags. The small sum of ten cents (perhaps less) will place correspondents in instant communication with each other, no matter how widely they may be separated. Although the industrial art will have enormously increased, less steam power will be employed. Electrical or some other of the hidden forces of Nature wil be harnessed to the primary moving wheels of the great manufacturing establishments, and smoke and vapor will no longer mark their location to the distant traveler. The sick will not be required to swallow disgusting doses of medicine. Remedies will be administered through other avenues than the stomach.

Chemistry will have eliminated the vital, active principles from all curative agents; and through the cellular sub-cutaneous coverings, and by other at present closed doors of access, the influence of therapeutic agents will be brought to bear directly upon diseased parts. Light will be let in upon nearly all the organs of the body, so that the physician can observe the extent and nature of disease, and no longer be compelled to diagnose in the dark. A knowledge of practical science will be more generally diffused among the people, elevating and improving the masses, and consequently render them happier, wealthier and better fitted for the duties and responsibilities of life.—Boston Journal of Commerce.

WHITTAKER, the English army officer, who was shot by young Challoner, in Quebec, a week or two ago, has died of his injuries. Whittaker, it may be remembered, had placed Challoner's sister under the influence of chloroform and seduced her. Many people say that the jury will render a verdict of justifiable homicide. The feeling in Quebec, and, indeed throughout Canada, is very strongly in favor of young Challoner, in consequence of the notorious immoralities of English army officers in that country.

What Life Preservers are Worth.

Mr. James Greenwood, the "London Casual," writes to the Morning Star his experience among life preservers for sailors and passengers. His story suggests the inquiry whether the life preservers on our ships and steamboats are any better than those described by him. Some years ago, it was discovered that the India rubber buoys in the state rooms of Lake Erie steamers had been used as pincushions by lady passengers. Mr. Greenwood went among the sailor's shops and bought life buoys with the following result:

One was branded "warranted corkwood," one "all cork," and the third simply bore the word "warranted." They ranged in price from six shillings to seven and sixpence. They were all three carried home and dissected, with the following results:

No. 1 ("warranted,") when its flimsy yellow skin was slit, was discovered to consist bodily of straw, sparely covered with cork shavings for the satisfaction, it is presumed, of any cautious mariner who might feel disposed to risk a like slit in his purchase, so as to make sure of its quality before he paid for it.

No. 2 ("warranted") was stuffed with rushes.

No. 3 ("all cork") cork chips and rushes, about twenty per cent. of the former and eighty of the latter.

To test the buoyant capability of the three detected impostures, they were placed in water, a weight of ten pounds being attached to each. This was the result:

"Warranted corkwood"—Sank in an hour.

"Warranted"—Stood the test for nearly two hours and then succumbed.

"All cork"—Floated for four hours and then sank from view.

Here is a pretty revelation! In our inbred love for the sea and all that pertains to it, in this more than in any other direction do our sympathy and charity extend. An appeal for funds to float a life-boat on any dangerous coast is seldom or never made in vain. We have hearty despising for all "crimps" and "long shore" sharks, who prey on the seaman and fleece him of his hard earnings, more than all. Of all men, none is so utterly abhorred as the "wrecker," the cold-blooded villain who, by means of false lights and signals, betrays a vessel to certain destruction for the sake of such plunder as the shattered hulk and the bodies of drowned men may yield. What, then, must be our opinion of the man who, for the sake of an extra profit of half a crown, consigns a fellow-creature to the lingering torture of death by gradual drowning? To be sure, it may often happen that, cast on the face of the wilderness of water, the possessor of a life buoy deserving the name may, in the end, be worse off than the man who has no such hope left him out of the wreck of his ship, and "goes down, and have done with it;" but who, since this wretched imposture began, may reckon the instances of desperate hope all unexpectedly mocked to death; of life lost that would have been saved, had the promise that the treacherous buoy held out but proved true? Nay, how many men, and women, too—emigrant mothers bearing up their little children in the fathomless waters—have been cheated out of their lives by abandoning the spar or plank for the more hopeful looking ring of stuffed canvas "warranted solid cork wood," hut which is no more than straw and rags, and soddens and sinks, dragging the clingers with it?

FERNANDO PO, where the prisoners of State in Cuba are to be conveyed, is an island, 44 miles long and 20 miles broad, situated on the west coast of Africa, in the Bight of Biafra, about 20 miles from the nearest point of the main land. Fernando Po is in latitude about 3 deg. 30 min. north, is traversed by a mountain ridge, which at Clarence Peak rises to the height of 10,650 feet, or over two miles, is fertile, well watered and thickly wooded. It contains, in a state of nature, large flocks of goats and sheep, and swarms of monkeys of great size. The climate, excessively hot at all times, becomes intolerable during the rainy season, when a pestilential wind blows from the continent of Africa. The native population consists of twelve thousand negroes, inhabiting fifteen villages. The English Government, between 1827 and 1834, made an attempt to form a colony, but failed. In 1844, Spain again took possession and established a penal settlement.

THE snow sheds of the Central Pacific Railroad extend for a continuous distance of twenty-two miles, with a breadth of sixteen feet, and a height of sixteen feet, not including the pitch of the roof. The sides are inclosed, and the sheds resemble a long tunnel, lighted at the sides through the interatices between the boards. The building is braced together in a substantial manner, and is bolted to the rocks wherever the road approaches the edges of cliffs. Where snow slides are to be feared, the roof is extended to the wall of rocks, so that the falling masses shall be deposited on the other side, down in the ravine. Where sidelings have been laid, the shed is wider than sixteen feet. The entire building covers an area of more than 1,858,550 square feet, or forty-three acres. Over 40,000,000 running feet of lumber have been used in building these sheds.

BRIGHAM YOUNG lately lectured the ladies of Mormondom on education, and among other remarks, made these pertinent ones: "See, in the fashionable world, the education given to a young lady! It consists mainly of how to bow and curtsey, how to meet a gentleman, how to be graceful in a ball room, how to get into and out of a carriage, how to walk on the streets, how high her clothes should be lifted, or how many feet they should drag behind her; and, in addition to this, to thrum on the piano and have a smattering of French or Italian. These are what should be called female loafers; they are no good to themselves or anybody else. They cannot knit their stockings, make their dresses or underclothing, or do anything useful."

EMINENT physicians assert that a change of physical type is periodic, and that since 1862 the plethoric type has been gaining on the nervous. Men can lose blood now, according to these statements, who could not a few years ago. "The nervous type," says one physician, "came in with the first cholera epidemic, and has lasted about a third of a century."

A MORALIST took his daughter to see the Siamese twins. "Observe, Prudence, my dear," he remarked to her, "observe the care exercised by Providence which united these two citizens; and think what a heavy and wearisome letter might that membrane which attaches them together have been, if instead of being brothers they had been strangers to each other."

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Notice to Our Readers.—Parties moving, or who intend to move on or before April first, should leave the number of their present residence, and the number of those they intend moving to, at our counting room, so our carriers can leave their papers promptly and miss no numbers.

Councils.—A regular meeting of the City Councils will be held next Monday afternoon.

The Survey Committee of Councils will meet at the office of the City Engineer on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock.

Allegheny Councils.—A regular semi-monthly meeting of Allegheny Councils will be held this evening at 7 o'clock, in their chambers, City Building.

Appointed.—Mr. Philip Hoerr has been appointed Post Master of Birmingham, (Buchanan), the present incumbent, E. G. Krehan, declining to longer serve in the office he has so faithfully filled.

Attempted Burglary.—Thomas Parks, a negro, was arrested in the Twenty-first ward, yesterday, on a charge of attempting to break into the house of Mr. Thomas H. Rulligan. He was brought to the lock-up, where he awaits a hearing.

Needs Attention.—The side walk on the east side of Irwin street, between Duquesne Way and Penn street, might be considerably improved by a little attention from the Street Commissioner. At present it is an almost unpassable condition.

Personal.—Vice President Colfax, with his wife, sister and brother-in-law, arrived at the Union Depot Tuesday evening. The party remained until yesterday morning, when they departed for Andover, Ohio, the former home of Mrs. Colfax.

Coroner's Inquest.—Coroner Clawson yesterday held an inquest on the body of Mahala Gordon, a colored infant about six months old, which had been found dead in bed yesterday morning, at the residence of its parents, in Reserve township. A verdict of death from accidental smothering was returned.

Elsewhere we publish the advertisement of Messrs. Tustin & Klee, Real Estate Agents, No. 87 Grant street, first floor. The property offered is all desirable and should readily secure purchasers. We commend this firm to our readers who may desire to buy or sell real estate, as we know them to be fair-dealing, prompt and careful in all their business transactions.

A Bad Eye—Glass.—Tuesday evening James McClemmonds entered a saloon in the Diamond and succeeded in a short time in raising a disturbance between himself and the barkeeper, Chas. McTiernan. During the altercation McTiernan, according to his allegations, was struck in the eye with a glass tumbler by McClemmonds, the wound inflicted being of a dangerous and painful character. A warrant was issued by Alderman McMasters for the arrest of McClemmonds on a charge of assault and battery.

Almost a Conflagration.—About nine o'clock Tuesday evening considerable alarm was created among the inmates of the Optic Saloon, on Fifth avenue, by the discovery of a slight fire in the ceiling at the point where the stove pipe passes through. The fire was extinguished, however, before any material damage was done, by the application of a few buckets of water. An alarm was struck from box 24, corner of Smithfield street and Fifth avenue, which brought the fire department out. Their services, however, were not required.

A Show Case.

Henry Kennedy made information before Alderman McMasters yesterday against John McGraw, for larceny. It is alleged that McGraw occupied a store on Hand street, and failed to pay the rent for the same, when his goods were sold to make up the deficiency. Among the articles disposed of was a show case, which Kennedy claimed as his property. After the show case had been sold he states he endeavored to get the value of it refunded to him, but failed; hence the information against McGraw. The accused was arrested and gave bail for a hearing to-day.

Unsuccessful Attempt.

Some time during Tuesday night an unsuccessful attempt was made by burglars to enter the feed store of Voeghtly & Kopp, on Ohio street, Fourth ward, Allegheny. A panel was cut out of a door in the rear of the establishment, but the operators found their game blocked by an inside lining of sheet iron, which had been placed over the door especially to prevent access to the interior by such means. Some months ago the store was robbed by thieves, who gained an entrance by cutting through the door. The firm subsequently placed the sheet iron over the door, thus profiting by experience.

An Ungentle Man.

Maggie E. Murphy is a domestic, employed at a boarding house on Third street. Yesterday she had the misfortune to offend John Casey, one of the boarders in the establishment, who manifested his disapprobation of Maggie's conduct by grasping her by the hair, pulling her down two or three flights of stairs and finishing the performance by severely beating her until she was completely exhausted. This is Maggie's story. John's statement has not been heard yet. He was arrested and gave bail for a hearing to-day before Alderman McMasters.

A Hard Schell.

Some time ago a bundle containing sixteen hides was stolen from the tannery of J. C. Lappe, Seventh ward, Allegheny, but though every effort was made the thieves escaped detection at the time. At a late hour Tuesday evening, one of the Allegheny Police picked up Josiah Schell, on Ohio street, in an intoxicated condition. He was locked up for the night, but notwithstanding his intoxication he managed to abstract from the pocket of his cell-mate, a five dollar bill; the loser next morning made a great ado, however, and succeeded in compelling the Schell to disgorge the money, although when it was returned he refused to prosecute.

From several suspicious circumstances the Mayor was led to believe that Schell was one of the parties implicated in the robbery of the tannery mentioned. After some conversation, Schell acknowledged he had taken three hides, but stoutly disclaimed any knowledge of the remaining thirteen. Upon this confession, he wes held for a hearing, on a charge of larceny.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Meeting of the Committee of Councils on Fire Engines and Hose—Tour of Inspection—Condition of the Department.

The Committee of Councils on Fire Engines and Hose met yesterday at one o'clock P. M., pursuant to a call of the chairman, Mr. Boggs, at Hare's Hotel, for the purpose of making the annual tour of inspection of the several engine houses. There were present Messrs. Gallaher, Wainwright, Quinn, Hartman, Boggs, Vick, Meyer, Schott and Weisenberger, all of whom visited the engine houses of the different companies, except Messrs. Gallaher and Hartman, who declined to accompany the Committee.

An omnibus had been provided for the occasion, and at two o'clock the Committee, accompanied by Chief Engineer Hare and the representatives of the press, started on the tour of inspection.

RELIEF ENGINE HOUSE.

The Relief Engine House on Fifth avenue, in the Sixth ward, was first visited. Everything was found in good order about the premises. The company have thirty sections of hose, twenty-two of which are in good order and fit for service. The apparatus consists of an Amoskeag engine and one hose carriage, and the company have three good horses. After a thorough inspection of the premises and apparatus, the Committee expressed themselves well satisfied, and repaired to the house of the

RESCUE HOOK AND LADDER COMPANY.

This company has been in service for about two years, and notwithstanding they have received no appropriation from Councils, purchased their own truck and ladders, and have had many circumstances of a discouraging nature to contend against, the company has been one of the most effective in the department. It has been lately admitted to representation in the Firemen's Association, and there will be an effort made to have an appropriation made to it the same as to other companies in the department. The company have one good hand truck and four ladders, in all eighty-five feet in length. They are now occupying a small frame house on Gibbon street, the rent of which is paid by the company. The company is in need of a good house, and the Committee will probably report in favor of the erection of a suitable one for its accommodation.

DUQUESNE.

The next place visited by the Committee was the Duquesne Engine House, on Smithfield street, in the Second ward, where everything was found in good order except the stable. The present stable is entirely too small, but as the Committee on City Property have purchased an adjoining lot in the rear of the engine house, fronting twenty feet on Second street, it is probable that a stable will be erected on it during the present season. There are twenty-six sections of serviceable hose in the hands of the company, and the apparatus consists of a hose carriage and an Amoskeag Engine, of the latest pattern, and three horses.

VIGILANT.

Having made a thorough inspection of the premises and apparatus at the Duquesne, the Committee next visited the Vigilant Engine House, on Third avenue, where they were met by Capt. Elliott, who showed them through the establishment and gave them all the desired information. The house and apparatus were found in good order. The latter consists of a fine Amoskeag engine and hose carriage, and twenty sections of hose, ten of which only are serviceable. The Company have three good horses. The engine house is the best arranged and most perfect in its appointments of any in the city, and everything is kept in the most perfect order.

EAGLE.

The next place visited was the Eagle Engine House, Fourth avenue. The engine house proper, bunk rooms and parlor were all in excellent order, and the apparatus, consisting of a steam engine, one hose carriage and twenty sections of hose, were in good condition. The facilities for stabling the horses, of which there are three, are very inferior, and a new stable is greatly needed. The city owns a lot in the rear of the engine house, upon which it is probable a stable will be, or at least should be erected the coming season.

The new ladder truck purchased by the Committee in Philadelphia, last fall, is housed in the shed in rear of the Eagle Engine House, not yet having been assigned to any company, as contemplated by Councils when the Committee were instructed to purchase it. It is an admirable arrangement and would be a most valuable apparatus in the Department if put into the hands of competent men. It should be put into service immediately.

ALLEGHENY.

The Allegheny Engine House was next visited by the Committee. The engine was undergoing repairs, but we were informed by some of the members that it had not been out of service and would not be, as the repairs were about completed. The hose carriage was in good order, and there are ten sections of serviceable hose on hand. The horses, of which there are three, are in good condition. The engine house, although it cost the city about $16,000, nearly double that of any other engine house, is not well adapted to the purposes for which it was intended, and is inferior to most of the houses in many respects.

NEPTUNE.

The Neptune House was then visited, and while the apparatus, consisting of an Amoskeag engine, a hose carriage, and twenty sections of serviceable hose, were found in good condition, and the engine house proper in good repair, the tower for drying the hose was found to be too low for the purpose. The length of the sections are fifty feet and the tower is scarcely thirty feet high. It should be extended at least twenty feet higher. A new stable is necessary for the proper care of the horses.

NIAGARA.

The Niagara house and apparatus were in good condition. There are twenty sections of serviceable hose. The company have but two serviceable horses, one of the engine horses having been injured recently while going to a fire. The company have no funds and the city will doubtless have to purchase them a horse before the engine can be of any service.

INDEPENDENCE.

The last place visited was the Independence. The house having been recently remodeled and repaired, is now one of the most convenient in the city, and the engine is new, of the latest Amoskeag pattern. The hose carriage is worn out and will have to be replaced by a new one at the expense of the city, as the company have no funds in the Treasury. The company have fourteen sections of hose, all in good condition, and the horses are excellent.

Owing to the lateness of the hour the Committee decided not to visit the Lawrence Hose Company, and having made the tour of all the other companies, adjourned well pleased with the inspection. A report of the doings of the Committee, embodying such recommendations as they may deem necessary, will probably be submitted to Councils at the next meeting on Monday.

Court of Quarter Sessions—Judge Stowe.

WEDNESDAY, March 24 —The first case taken up was the Commonwealth vs. F. Krupricka, Matthew Zirhut, Vojteck Donovsky and John Bastar, indicted for libel on oath of one Francis Ellick. The defendants are Bohemians, and the alleged libellous article was published in the Slavie, a paper printed in the Bohemian language at Racine, Wisconsin. The article purported to be signed by the defendants, who reside in Allegheny, and reflected upon the character of the prosecutor. The name used in the article was "Mr. Jillick," but it was claimed by the Commonwealth that Mr. Ellick was the person referred to, and that the name was designedly changed. It appeared that Mr. Ellick had undertaken the management of a Bohemian colony in Nebraska, and the article reflected upon that management and insinuated that he was not acting properly towards the colony or the Bohemians here. T. M. Marshall and J. J. Siebeneck, Esqs., appeared for the prosecution, and Messrs. W. C. Moreland and W. D. Moore for the defense. Verdict of not guilty.

Commonwealth vs. Charles Opie, indictment larceny, was next taken up. It was alleged that the accused had stolen a pocket book containing eleven dollars in money, from the prosecutor, Wm. Hains, in a saloon. Verdict of guilty.

The Miller-Kaufman Homicide—Verdict of the Jury.

The jury in the case of Michael Kaufman, indicted for the murder of the boy Eddie Miller, came into Court Wednesday fornoon, (having been deliberating all of Tuesday night) and asked for instructions in the question of malice. Having been properly instructed, they again retired.

At a quarter to three o'clock, in the afternoon, it was announced that a verdict had been agreed upon, and the prisoner was ordered to be brought into Court. A few minutes later the jury appeared, and having taken their places in the box, one of them stated they had agreed upon a verdict, but before rendering it, they desired to ask the Court a question. The names of the jury were called over by the clerk, and the Court was asked whether the jury could add the word "aggravated" to the verdict. The Court (Judge Stowe) said they could not.

The verdict was then announced by the foreman as "Guilty of Murder of the Second Degree," and so recorded.

The prisoner was visibly affected after the rendition of the verdict, and wept bitterly.

The jury were equally divided, six holding out for murder of the first and six for murder of the second degree, from the time of first ballot, on Tuesday night, until noon of Wednesday, when the number for "first degree" was reduced to two. The verdict is received with satisfaction, the belief being general that while technically, under the law, the prisoner's crime was of the higher degree, yet the doubt, as to his having had a "specific intent" to take life, was sufficient to turn the scale in his favor.

The Great West.

The Allegheny Library Association have engaged Rev. A. M. Stewart, late Chaplain in the army, to deliver a lecture this evening, in Excelsior Hall, Allegheny, on "the Great West," a subject replete with interest to every lover of the grand, the poetical and the practical in our country. The lecturer having recently completed an extensive tour in the section named, spending many months in noting carefully every thing of interest connected with this Eldorado of the Union, cannot fail through lack of material or ability to make an exceedingly attractive and instructive lecture. Among the special points referred to in the discourse, is the Mormons, with whom Mr. Stewart was an honored guest for sometime, having twice been allowed to preach in the Tabernacle, and becoming thoroughly conversant with the government, laws, and customs of the Saints. We can assure any of our readers, who may be desirous of gaining further information, relative to that portion of our country, which is justly regarded as the garden spot of this continent, an evening of great pleasure and profit, by attending the lecture, while at the same time they will be aiding in the support of a very worthy and noble institution.

A Little Sensation.

The quiet and goodly circles of society in —— township, Allegheny county, have recently been somewhat ruffled over the particulars of a scandal case, which at one time threatened to reach beyond the limits of the community in which it originated and be brought before the world in the form of a trial in Court. The principal parties connected with the case are all of the highest respectability and members of the Church in the locality where they resided. One of them is a young lady, about eighteen years of age and very handsome, enjoying the reputation of being the belle of the township. She resided with her uncle, a middle-aged gentleman farmer in comfortable circumstances, and had been an inmate of his house a number of years, her parents being dead. Some time ago rumor began to associate her name very disrespectfully with that of her guardian, but no attention was paid to the matter until a direct charge of improper intimacy between them was made by a member of the Church. The three parties being members of the same Church, the case was at once brought to the notice of the official body having jurisdiction. After a full and complete examination of all the circumstances connected with the affair, upon which the charge was based, the defendants were acquitted without cavil. But the end was not yet. The affair had created such an excitement that peace could not be had instantly and it continued to be the theme of gossip. Each side, of course, had friends, and the recrimination at last became so bitter that the person who had brought the charge before the Church concluded to try some method of stopping the affair, and with this end in view appeared before Alderman Humbert yesterday and lodged an information for slander against the lady and her uncle. He had hardly left the magistrate's office before the accused appeared and made a counter charge against their prosecutor, the offense consisting in an attempt to take improper liberties with the lady.

An officer was dispatched for, and succeeded in apprehending the first prosecutor in a short time, when the parties assembled at the Alderman's office, and after a deal of discussion effected a compromise by withdrawing both suits. So the affair stands at present, but whether it will remain so the future can only tell.

Jealous Louis.

Louis Anderson, colored, was arrested yesterday morning by officer Shaffer of the Allegheny police, for disorderly conduct. Louis at the time of his arrest was acting in a very demonstrative manner at a house in the Third ward, so much so that the attention of the entire neighborhood was attracted to the place. It seems that the domestic relations of Louis have not been of the most pleasant character lately. He was married some time ago to an African belle of Allegheny. For a while all was well, till a dusky visitor made his appearance. At first Louis said he simply regarded "de man" with suspicion, but a feeling of dislike and finally hatred of the man took entire possession of his soul, and he became so much exasperated at his wife for encouraging the visits of the intrusive individual that he ordered her to leave his house. She accordingly took him at his word, and a day or two since put up at the house of a female friend who keeps boarders, among whom was the object of Louis' dislike. Hearing of the arrangement, Louis repaired to the boarding house yesterday morning, and was upbraiding his wife for her conduct, when he was arrested as stated. When bought before Mayor Drum he was fined five dollars and costs, which he paid and departed, swearing vengeance dire against the despoiler of his happiness if his attentions were not, in the future, discontinued.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—"Rip Van Winkle" was presented to a large audience at the Opera House last night, and will be repeated again to-night. Friday evening there will be a change of programme, on which occasion Mr. Jefferson will appear in two pieces.

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—"The Dogs of the Old Toll House; or the Village Blacksmith,' as presented by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Blanchard, and their trained dogs Carlo and Nero, at the Pittsburgh Theatre, is drawing full houses at that establishment. Dick Carroll is also an immense card at the "Old Drury," and Lilly Becket continues the favorite.

SMYTHE'S AMERICAN THEATRE.—Misses Katie Nichols and Nellie Taylor are the chief attractions at the American Theatre this week, notwithstanding the inimitable Gus Williams continues to favor the patrons of the establishment nightly with his budget of wit and humor.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The Old Folks' Concert, to be given at the Academy of Music on Monday and Tuesday evenings, the 26th and 30th inst., for the benefit of Post 117, G. A. R., promises to be the most brilliant affair of the season. Some forty artistes, comprising the best native talent in the two cities, will take part in the concert, and the costumes have been ordered from the East especially for the occasion.

Fatally Injured.

Tuesday afternoon Theodore Nix, residing in Long alley, Third ward, Allegheny, was fatally injured by the falling of a chest which struck him upon the head, while he was engaged in storing freight in the hold of a boat at the Monongahela wharf. He was knocked senseless by the weight of the chest, and did not recover consciousness for some time after the accident. He was taken home as soon as possible and Drs. Hardmeyer and Ekehart called in, who continue in attendance upon him, but with very slight hopes of his recovery. Last evening he was lying at his residence unable to speak or move, and apparently sinking rapidly. He is a man of middle age, a tailor, by trade, and has a wife and five children depending upon him for support.

Drugged and Robbed.

Frank Seyfried, news agent on the Western Pennsylvania Railroad, came to the Mayor's office last evening and stated he had been drugged and robbed of fifty-five dollars and his overcoat. He states that he came to the city yesterday morning at 10:40, in company with Gil. Wilkinson, who was previously employed on the road, and they went to a saloon in the Diamond, Allegheny, where they drank one glass of beer each, and after that he does not appear to have any distinct recollection of his doings, until last evening, when he found himself in a saloon near the Monongahela bridge, in South Pittsburgh, minus his coat and money. The police have the matter in hand.

The Allegheny Fire Alarm.

Last evening an alarm of fire was struck in Allegheny, but owing to the failure of the Fire Alarm Telegraph to work properly, four different signals were given, and the locality from whence the alarm originated could not be ascertained. The companies all turned out promptly, but scattered in all directions, each, of course, answering the signal received at its own house. The hose carriage of the General Grant Engine Company, in turning out of Ohio street, to proceed up the east side of the Diamond, was badly wrecked by the breaking of the front axle, at each side, allowing the body of the carriage to strike the ground, and the wheels to fall off on either hand. Fortunately no person was hurt, but the steamer will probably be thrown out of service for a few days, as this is the only carriage owned by the company. The damage will amount to about seventy-five dollars.

In this connection we would suggest to the Committee on Fire Engines and Hose of the City Councils, the propriety of taking some action in reference to making the Fire Alarm Telegraph more effective. We understand the apparatus cost altogether about $15,000. In its present condition, as a practical benefit to the city or the firemen, it is not worth fifteen cents. If any further proof of its ineffectiveness be needed than last night's workings, it can be found in the averments of the firemen that it cannot be relied upon lately in one case out of ten. Such a state of things ought not to be in a matter of so much importance. The old system of relying upon the bells at the different engine houses is vastly preferable. Either have the line abolished, or make it effective. As it is now, there is something radically wrong either with the system or its management, and wherever the fault is the sooner the remedy is applied the better. In making these suggestions we do not mean at all to cast any reflections upon the Committee, which we consider one of the best connected with the Councils, nor upon the Superintendent of the Telegraph. We merely reflect the sentiments and feelings of the citizens, who have paid for the establishment of the line, that it either be made to answer the purpose or thrown to one side altogether.

Removed.

Smith & Sutton, the well-known stencil cutters, have removed their establishment to 58 Market street, where they are now prepared to do all work in their line at short notice, and at such prices that cannot fail to give satisfaction. They are now prepared to furnish their much admired stencil frames, which can be changed in a short period to any address. They have on hand samples of their work, that require examination to appreciate, as the variety is too numerous to mention. They also manufacture burning irons, canceling stamps and seal presses. We recommend our readers to call and examine their wares, when they cannot fail to be suited. Remember the number, 58 Market street. 2

Miss Judith Russel, of New Bedford, writes: I have been afflicted with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. While visiting some friends in New York, who were using PLANTATION BITTERS, they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glass full after each meal. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the PLANTATION BITTERS.

Marshal's Sale of Ballou's Vinegar Factory.

United States Marshal Rowley, by virtue of a writ of venditioni exponas, issued out of the United States District Court of Western Pennsylvania, will expose to public sale on the premises on Saturday morning next, at ten o'clock, the large and well appointed vinegar manufactory lately occupied and owned by Arthur Ballou, situate at Nos. 168 and 170 Second avenue. The inventory of stock and fixtures is too lengthy for publication, as it comprises an endless quantity of tubs, cisterns, pipes, castings, furniture, materials and machinery, all of which we dare say will be sacrificed at low figures, so that great bargains may be anticipated by those who attend. The sale is peremptory and must take place at the time above designated,

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

KANSAS CITY, March 24.—Col. Williams, of the Bulletin, and Major Wholegong, of the Times, went to a point near Wyandotte, Kansas, yesterday, to fight a duel, but the Sheriff put a stop to the affair and arrested both parties, and they were put under heavy bonds to keep the peace. The affair grew out of strictures on each other published in their respective journals and created quite a sensation. The weapons chosen were double barrelled shot guns; distance thirty paces.

CAUTION.

The great popularity, on account of its salutary medicinal effects, of SQUIRE'S LONDON EFFERVESCING BI. CARB. Those desiring the true Potassa can obtain it from Messrs. J. C. MATTERN, J. B. CHERRY, J. E. BURNS & CO. and S. K. NORGRAVE.
